SIGNS OF GREATNESS.

All Really Able Presidents Have Been Abused.

Grover is President, He is Reviled, Therefore

GREAT IS GROVER.

Is Representative Patterson's Syllogistic Saying.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—[Special.]—Hon. Charles Patterson of the Tenth Missouri Tennessee district is a stalwart Democrat and is known in the house as an unshaken friend of the administration. He talks right along without troubling the reporter to ask many questions, and although his opinions are Democratic it will be advisable for Republicans to read them, as they show what the Democrats expect. As the following is condensed from various interviews, it is not claimed that Mr. Patterson's exact words are given in every case. As to his ideas there could be no misunderstanding. The question being on the alleged present unpopularity of the president, he said:

"Mr. Cleveland has been in office one year and has accumulated about as much criticism and unpopularity as all the really able presidents have done in the same time, and certainly no more. It may seem different to the people—yes, it does seem different, because the present is vivid in their minds, and the past is forgotten. But if you doubt it examine the papers published during the second years of Madison, Jackson, Lincoln, Grant, or, for the matter of that, any other president. But if you want to read abuse that is abuse got some of the old documents that were published by the opposition about George Washington when his policy toward France was first announced. After you read them you will think by comparison with the papers of today that Mr. Cleveland is being carried to the skies on flowery beds of ease."

Disappointed Office Seekers.

"But why should any president be most unpopular at the beginning of his second year?"

"Oh, the reasons are abundant. At the end of his first year the president has designated at least a quarter of a million office seekers, every one of whom has many friends, and one disappointed man will make more noise than 50 who are satisfied. You were raised on a farm, I believe, and must have noticed that when the hogs crowd to the wall trough all those who get there are quiet and the one who is shut out does all the squealing. Now, if he had from ten to a hundred friends to help him squeal it would parallel the situation. Rather a rough comparison, I admit, but it will help you to understand why office seekers are so numerous. Many old office seekers are turned out. Both the wild and tame are both gone, or so they think. At the end of their first year all the measures favored by the president had progressed just far enough to create dissatisfaction and not far enough to do any good. The president is then in the position of a minister who has abused half dozen, carried away the goods, and is now being used with a litter. At this point long comes Sam Houston and says: 'That's a pretty heavy dose for a horse. That is not the kind of a horse your Democratic followers built before they went into captivity, and so on. Now Ezra and Schenck and the rest of them can do the work, and the time will be afforded to wait until the horse is done and all the insightful surroundings cleared away and it shows for what it is.'"

Cause and Effect.

"It is an old fact in our commercial history. Mr. Patterson, that every severe panic has come in the year after a presidential election. Business declines, and the people are not so interested in the result. The panic comes, as you say, just after a new president comes into office, but of course it is the result of causes operating long before. The first impulse is to blame the new administration, but the real cause is that the people always tend to see the true reasons. And here is where our Republican friends are laying up trouble for themselves. They incessantly proclaim that the hard times are the result of Democratic rule and when the good times come, as they are about to, they say that the times will be boistered to explain them. A long depression is certain to be followed by a boom. Eastern capital is certain to flow westward and southward, as it did after the disastrous period of 1873-8. Then our Republican friends will have to make their argument on our tariff just at the time when the country is on a rising tide of prosperity. I shall enjoy seeing them do it. The prospect almost reconciles me to their having a majority in the next house."

"There is another and very weighty reason which the opposition are ashamed to admit—namely, the stupendous success which Mr. Cleveland has achieved. For a man to start as county sheriff and become in rapid succession mayor of a great city, governor of the greatest state and president of the greatest nation in the world, then announce a new and aggressive policy, to be defeated, stick to his principles and come in again triumphantly, is indeed something to his enemies. Say what you will about the principles involved, the election of 1892 was an unparalleled personal triumph."

Cleveland No Accident.

"All this naturally makes those fellows apprehensive. They realize what he has done, and they have their suspicions about what he may do in the future. They intend to put him down, if possible. There is a large class of people who are not at all successful men. They are fond of saying that he is an accident. I cannot look at human affairs that way. A man can get into congress perhaps by accident, but to start at the lowest place and reach the highest, a man must have a great deal of talent and reform at once—in the tariff, in the coin laws and in the civil service—and that the claims of the different advocates of these various reforms are at present hard to reconcile. Many other things might be added, but I have given you

POSTOFFICES FOR KOREA.

Old System of Postal Orders to be Done Away With.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Korea will doubtless become a member of the universal postal union within a few months. Its diplomatic representatives in this city are gathering from all sources information necessary for the practical establishment of a postal system in that country.

Application for admission to the union will soon be made and the final action will be taken before the close of the year. Neat arrangements will, of course, have to be made for establishing post-offices in Korea, printing postage stamps, letting contracts and attending to the various details incident to the establishment of the service.

The only postal system now in operation in that country is maintained on the principal highways. Along these, a few postal riders, who hold the position, almost of royal rank, mounted on horses kept at government expense, carry the mail.

AT ENGLAND'S MERCY.

France's Navy and Coast Defenses Deplored.

PARIS, March 8.—The evidence which is being furnished to the commission charged with the investigations of the allegations made against the French navy and the coast defenses of France, increases the gravity of the charges made.

In substance it was asserted that the majority of the French vessels was practically useless and that the French coast was almost at the mercy of an enemy with a large fleet such as the one possessed by England.

STRIKERS ALL QUIET.

A Committee Confering With the Authorities—Trial of Rioters.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 8.—By request of a committee from the United Mine Workers, the organization to which all the strikers belong, a conference was held at Eagle today between representatives of the strikers and the military and civil authorities. The miners will probably resume.

The operators also say that resumption will be made at a reduction of several members of the miners labor organization say that the committee which met with the authorities would issue a statement denouncing all connected with the riot. Company K from this city returned today. Affairs are now regarded as settled so far as riots are concerned. The preliminary trial of the strikers is in progress at Fayetteville, and will consume several days.

The inquest of the body of Tom Adkins will not be concluded until the witnesses now in attendance in the preliminary hearing in Fayetteville can be present at the coroner's inquest.

MEASURING JACKSON.

A Doctor to Analyze His Strength and Estimate the Force of His Blows.

NEW YORK, March 8.—John W. Giblin of 1639 Broadway has had a remarkable feat of strength demonstrated by Peter Jackson, the colored pugilist, who is matched to fight James J. Corbett tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The doctor will take all Jackson's measurements and estimate the force of his blows, besides passing upon his general physical condition.

The same process was undergone by Corbett before his fight with Sullivan and Mitchell, and while the test in the latter instance served to amaze—all unnecessarily—Corbett's physical superiority over the Englishman, Sullivan's power was clearly demonstrated to be far superior to those of the California, who whipped John L. with ease.

Jackson has never been put under this method of analysis, and much interest is expressed in the way he will hold up. Edson Davies will bring his man in from Washington after this evening's performance of "Candle Tom's" Collins and return at noon tomorrow in time to fill the engagement of the evening.

WORLD'S FAIR LEFTOVERS.

Auction Sale of Remnants Not Carried Away by Exhibitors.

CHICAGO, March 8.—Sale by auction of abandoned World's fair exhibits is in progress in Jackson park.

It is being conducted by Collector of Customs Clark for the purpose of realizing the value of the duplicates of the goods. Eight rooms in the building were filled with miscellaneous articles of stuff as was ever gotten together. Wines from France, bamboo from Java, fish from Norway, statuary from Italy, Sedan chairs from Turkey, with any amount of miscellaneous articles, the entire lot valued at $4,500, were offered for sale.

The opportunity to secure bargains and souvenirs of the fair attracted large crowds.

ANTWERP EXPOSITION.

United States to Be Represented by a Commission of Five.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Representative McCreary, chairman of the foreign affairs committee, felt a personal satisfaction in the resolution passed yesterday for a United States commission of five to the international exposition at Antwerp from May 5 to November 5.

He regards as reciprocating some of the courtesies which the king of Belgium extended to the international monetary conference at Brussels and showed the United States commissioners many personal attentions.

The Belgian minister to the United States has recently conferred with Mr. McCreary as to a suitable representation by the United States at Antwerp and the resolution passed yesterday will be in accordance with the wishes of the Belgian authorities.

TO-DAY'S MARKET REPORT.

Furnished by W. F. Federman, Broker in Grain, Provisions and Stocks, Room 2, Columbian Building.

Chicago Market.

CHICAGO, March 8.—There was more or less nervousness in wheat over the impending corn report which is due Saturday and the general feeling seems to be that it will be bullish. Hence the shorts were somewhat nervous and there was more or less demand for the long account.

Baldwin and Farnum sold heavily putting out 100,000 bushels of wheat at 60 1/2c, but probably 100,000 bushels at 60 1/2c. Broesau was also a generous seller.

Logan, Lutzon, Counselman & Day, Schwartz-Dupee and Congdon were good buyers, however, on all the material breaks, and there were quick rallies from all directions.

The clearances from the seaboard were also liberating—about 443,000 in wheat and flour—and helped check any tendency to weakness.

May wheat opened at 60 1/2c, sold to 60 1/2c, to 60 1/2c and off to 60 1/2c, but again recovered.

May corn opened steady at 37 1/2c and sold to 38 1/2c.

May pork was unchanged at 31 1/2c.

January lead was 52 1/2c firmer at $4,62 1/2c.
